THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 28, 1857.

We have again to remind our readers that, whilst we cles : are publishing the opinious of the judges in the Dred Scott case, almost everything else is excluded. It is so important to the information of the public mind that the reasons of the majority of the court upon which they founded their opinion, should go forth to the people, that we willingly give up our columns almost entirely to this important subject. We have many valuable and interesting communications on hand which cannot now be published. We fare no better than our correspondents and contributors. We write editorials, but cannot publish them for want of space. But we feel assured that nothing that we can write is just how so important to the country as the reasoning and the decision of a great constitutional question, which has lately claimed so large a share of public attention.

When the publication of this case is finished, and we make our gomments upon it, our columns will they reach, directly or indirectly, all the essential interests of our city. Good or adverse results will necessarily follow the choice we make of the depositaries of our trust.

Two tickets are presented to the people. One of them represents a party long known, long trusted, and ever faithful in protecting the honor and advancing the prosperity of the city. It has a deep and an abiding interest in all that courts the protection of wise laws and good government. The other is of modern date-mysterious in its origin, anomalous in its character, odious in its principles, and faithless to popular confidence. Brief as has been its existence, it has had its day of trial and triumph. It has been a scourge and a blight wherever it beguiled popular favor and wielded an arm of power.

Beyond our own doors we need not go for proof of Look to the Washington Monument, and see how it stands blighted by their touch! For years the sound of no hammer has been heard within its precints; its revenue is gone; the streams of patrictic and generous favor throughout the land that fed the fountain that raised it to its present height are all cut off by the thriftless, faithless band of vandals that took possession of its keys, and descerated the sanctity that hung around the monument and the name of Washington.

Let us remember the brutal assaults that have been made by this party upon the sacred right of suffrage and the majesty of law-the safety of life and the protection of property ; let us remember the leans : let us look throughout all our borders, social, moral political, and in everything that bears upon these modern Ishmaelites have done anything to entithem from virtuous indignation. No; they are the plague-spots upon the body-politic, consuming its vitality wherever their influence has reached. They are now the "sick man" in our midst; and let us speed their march to the grave, and secure a clean bill of health for our city.

of the New York Journal of Commerce:

"The Police Quistrox,—The mayor shows conclusively, in his message to the board of councilmen last evening, that under the Dongan Montgomeric charter the authorities of the city have ample power to establish a watch or police for the city, independently of any force which may be designated by the State for the same purpose.
